#SUDEPAwarenessDay2016

Today 23rd October is SUDEP Awareness Day. Together with other epilepsy charities, Organisations, people with epilepsy, families and health professionals, we want to raise as much awareness of SUDEP as possible.

The aim of this campaign is not to scare but to highlight key steps that people with epilepsy can take to reduce their risk of SUDEP.

We will be posting information about SUDEP throughout the day so please retweet and tweet us using the campaign hashtags to help spread the SUDEP Awareness Day messages widely. We will also do our best to retweet you. Thank you

Please....Let's all make a promise to speak to someone... anyone that will listen....tomorrow and at every opportunity to raise, much needed awareness...to dispel the myths, to quell the fear and stigma around epilepsy. It's a bloody wicked condition and still, so little is understood about it.... Our Tom felt embarrassed, alone and scared by his condition but he bore it with such dignity, bravery and good humour and never ever let it define him. He was a true inspiration to me and all who knew him and we all wish we could tell him just how bloody wonderful he was. His attitude to life, has changed me for the better and my life is so enriched for sharing our journey, together. It just wasn't long enough. I'll miss your lovely smile and your great big hugs...always xxxx

#SUDEPAwarenessDay2016

Tomorrow epilepsy organisations, people with epilepsy, families, health professionals and carers will be coming together to stand #UnitedAgainstSUDEP and raise much needed awareness of #SUDEP.

The aim of this campaign is not to scare but to highlight key steps that people with epilepsy can take to reduce their risk.

Please help spread the word by retweeting and sharing the campaign key messages which will be shared across social media.

Please remember to use the official SUDEP Awareness Day campaign hashtags to add your voice to the campaign and help spread awareness:

Hi, I live in New Zealand, and sadly I lost my only son Todd to Sudep, he was 22 years old and had lived with epilepsy from the age of 11. As Todd reached his early 20's his seizures became uncontrolled and very violent Todd passed away during the night in bed, and was found 13 hours later by his flatmate 😞
Sally also died from Sudep, she was Todd's friends sister Sally was 9 when she was found by her brother, he went to wake her to get ready for school ... Sally only suffered 3 seizures, and was undiagnosed Sally's mother and I have become friends and support each other We held an awareness campaign this week in our local supermarket

SUDEP is the sudden, unexpected death of someone with #epilepsy, who was otherwise healthy. No other cause of death is found when an autopsy is done. Each year, more than 1 out of 1,000 people with epilepsy die from SUDEP. If seizures are uncontrolled the risk of SUDEP increases to more than 1 out of 150.

We held our second annual SUDEP Awareness Walk today. It was a huge success. We had to cut route down as we'd been stopped so many times for information, our group often got separated or held up. Which is fantastic as it's exactly why we were there. Next yr we shall be choosing locations to stand, rather than walk to give us the opportunity to speak to people. We had so much love & support today, wearing purple seemed to identify us as Epilepsy related which encouraged conversations. One of the most touching moments for me was to see the children so involved. Standing by watching them educate, to a very high standard..... we were so proud. Love to all involved today. ❤️ in memory of each and every angel lost to SUDEP/Epilepsy ❤️

Today is SUDEP Awareness Day... yesterday a wonderful group of people all connected sadly by the loss of a loved one to SUDEP walked the streets of London raising fantastic awareness of SUDEP. I was unable to make the walk but once again these beautiful people took our Dan along for us. It was a very long day for them all and I know emotionally they will be feeling it today. They did it so that others with Epilepsy may receive more Knowledge of SUDEP... As one of the posters says "42% OF SUDEP DEATHS ARE PREVENTABLE WITH AWARENESS" Be kind to yourself my dear friends... sending love and hugs to you all xxxx

SUDEP Awareness Day October 23, 2016 - SUDEP, Epilepsy and Autism
October 23, 2016 is SUDEP Awareness Day. The acronym SUDEP stands for Sudden Unexpected Death in Epilepsy. The Epilepsy Foundation site has an informative page about SUDEP which is set out below before the Epilepsy Facts page of Epilepsy Canada. Persons with autism and their families should be aware of epilepsy and the possible risks of SUDEP. The information below from Epilepsy Canada indicates that approximately 0.6% of the Canadian population has epilepsy. By comparison Autism Speaks on its Autism and Epilepsy Resources page estimates that as many as 33% of persons with autism also suffer from epilepsy an extraordinary difference from the general population.
